COMMENTS:

The proposed changes are for a timber slatted fence which will still allow viewing between the slats. Although bamboo planting may help, this would entail regular maintenance in the form of watering of pots etc. Pot plants may die so this is not a permanent solution.

Furthermore, the fencing should be of a construction that is likely to last for a period of at least 10 years. Our view is that the screen should prevent any viewing through the fence without reliance on plants, must be permanent, and should be constructed from solid weather resistant timber, obscure glass, or similar material. It must also span the full distance between the rear wall of the house and the roof of the previous garage.
