

RE: Kingsbridge Farm, photos showing land height changes at barn where land excavated (wedge shape of land removed to create flat area for barn installation)

Hi Duncan

Thank you for your email. Just to clarify the process your application is going through, to avoid any misunderstanding.

You have provided evidence which has shown that the area for the current building proposal has had significant ground disturbance in the past, which is likely to have removed much of the archae required over the proposed building footprint.

I have emailed your case officer to this effect, however until they have accepted the Berkshire Archaeology recommendation, the condition remains in place. Therefore you should check with y

Once the case officer has clarified the situation, and if they agree to remove the condition, you should be issued with an informative for archaeology, asking you to contact us in the event of disco

However, please be aware that if there is to be disturbance in other areas of the proposal site, now or in the future, these will require archaeology to be considered, as the potential for archaeologi archaeological investigation this would have to be commissioned through an independent archaeological consultant. Unfortunately Berkshire Archaeology would be unable to attend to look for art

I hope this has clarified the position

Kind regards

Hi Linden

Thanks again for your email and apologies for responding again.

Do I need to submit a report and get things moving either way?

Perhaps deal with the planning condition officially from my end.

I am concerned that the officer may have a very full workload as is often the case and it will get later and later into the year.

Am really keen to programme any Archaeological necessary works in asap if they are needed.
