COMMENTS:

This caught my attention as I'm moving to the area in the new year and have had a previous bad experience of fuel leaks into water. Please look up the Bramley, Surrey fuel leak for full details, but our house was left without water for many days, and over half a million pounds worth of compensation was paid out to the village, as well a refund on our Thames Water bill for the quarter. We had to queue for water bottles on a daily basis that were being handed out at the village car parks until the water was deemed safe again. I can see this fuel storage running into the same issues being on a flood plain.

Additionally, as we keep hearing in the news, flooding is going to get worse, not better in the future.
