COMMENTS:

After a long battle when the last plans were passed it was for chalet bungalows as they would not have made too much of an impact on surrounding properties. This latest application to install a first floor level turns the property into a house, NOT a chalet bungalow. It will make an impact by reducing the privacy of surrounding properties because the addition of another floor means they will be overlooked and is out of keeping with the size of the site. It also means that the other proposed properties on the site may also want a first floor which goes against the original passed plans. An additional floor also means that in the future the owners may decide to extend even further into the new roof space meaning even more loss of privacy.
