COMMENTS:

Whilst I understand the process of thinning out woodland to ensure healthy trees can develop and grow over time I have real concerns over this proposal. It would see the loss of a significant number of trees. The tree loss would mainly consist of silver birch and oak which are the most common trees in the area. Many of the trees cut would be close to California Country Park and would have a negative effect on the character of the area. Woodland in this area is tightly packed and this would also create a difference in the character of the area. I would ask that officers treat this application with caution and if they conclude it is harmful to the character of the area they should reject it.
