Application Number: TP/2000/0389

Parish: WARGRAVE

Location: Stables At Nine Acre Wood Off, Blakes Road, Wargrave, Reading.

Proposal: Temporary permission for proposed stationing of mobile home.

The Wokingham District Council in pursuance of their powers under the above Acts and Regulations hereby Refuse Permission for carrying out the above development in accordance with the application and the accompanying plans submitted to the Council subject to compliance with the following conditions, the reasons for which are specified hereunder.

Reason

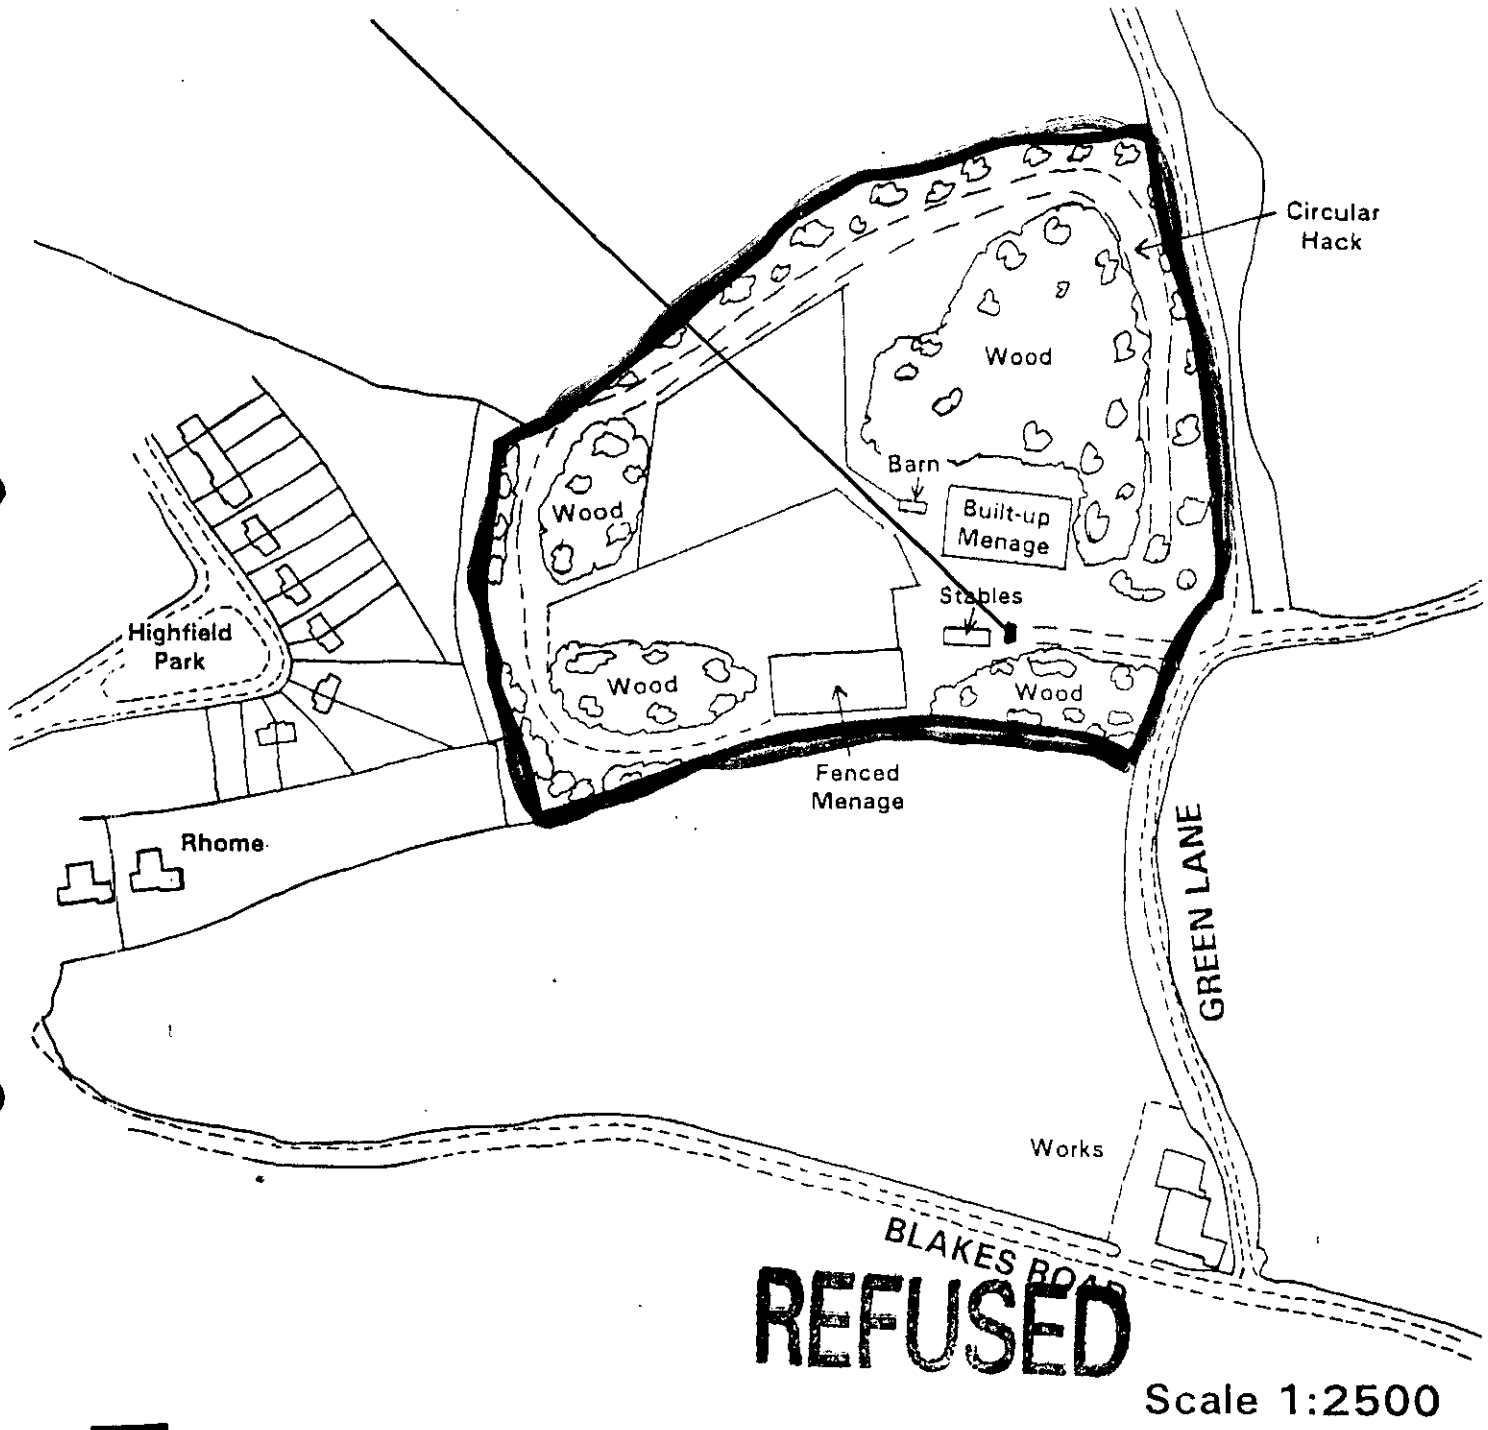

1. The proposed development would be an unacceptable form of development, which would introduce an additional dwelling, to the detriment of the open character and amenity of the Green Belt. Futhermore, the appellants have failed to demonstrate any very special circumstances that would out weigh the harm caused to the Green Belt. As such, the proposed development is contrary to Policy 8 of the Green Belt Local Plan for Berkshire and Policies WGB1 and WGB2 of the Wokingham District Local Plan.

Date: 13 April 2000

If this notice grants permission to proceed with the proposal the applicant is reminded that it relates to planning permission only and does not constitute approval under any other legislation including Building Regulations.

Re: Pre application for potential residential accommodation
In association with The Stables 9, Acre Wood, Off Blakes Road, Wargrave.

Dear Heather,

Many thanks for your letter which I received 18th November, which highlighted some useful points. We are still getting problems which I will come to later in this letter.

I would like to detail the main reasons for my request, which I believe to be exceptional circumstances. The vast majority of our problems occur overnight, therefore this is the accommodation that we would require, some detailed thought has been put into this by myself and my fiance. We are not concerned about exactly what we have as long as it looks respectable and fits in with the stables, we feel a small single mobile unit (approx 15-18ft) with toilet, would meet our requirement, positioned where discussed being totally secluded as well as blending in with the stables.

When we purchased the land some time ago we were assured of its quiet surroundings and obvious seclusion. This along with the fantastic range of wildlife and outstanding natural beauty as well as the perfect equestrian facilities installed at some considerable cost by the previous owner and ourselves, made it perfect for us.

Now that we have been on site for 12 months or so, we have come to realise that despite these problems we could be very happy here, especially as we have recently moved onto the Purfield Drive Area.

As you may or may not be aware we have numerous protected badger sets, muntjacs and deer (all within the boundaries of the land.)

We have been visited on site by travellers on numerous occasions, who keep asking us to sell them land, most recently one such person arrived at the entrance gate asking about a spare stable that we had, which you cannot see unless you have gained access to the site. I am very conscious to be polite and courteous at all times because I have been made aware of the problems that can happen and as my fiance is generally on site on her own, this is a worry to me.

My fiance has had a scruffy strange looking man walk directly through the middle of the land and ask if she had any horses for sale, despite being told that the land was private property he returned around a week later. We have now obtained a 'guard' dog who is certainly making us feel safer.

Our main problems have been the break-in of our tack room, with the following items being stolen

2 nearly new Pessoa jumping saddles
various bridles and tack
3 padlocks were broken
Large Hayter Lawnmower/Tractor
Two expensive wheel barrows and our electric fencing, plus the transformer

When the Police finally turned up (they could not find us) they suggested there was not much else we could do, except for having someone on site.

We have replaced most of the missing items, but our main concern now is for the horses. During the summer one of our protected Oak trees was set alight, along with the rear of one of the stables. Our horses are not only loved but very valuable, we have 4 at present in various stages on the competition ladder the most advanced is aiming for Badminton 3 day event next year.

Insurance is proving impossible to find especially for the fire risk. Please see cutting from paper enclosed, the problem of arson has become of deep concern to everyone connected with horses.

We estimate the replacement value for all our horses would be in excess of £40,000 and our lorry / tractor and various other tools another £25,000.

REFUSED

Our latest problem has been the dumping of rubbish in our driveway, on one occasion I sorted through and found an address in Wargrave High Street, only 2 nights ago the farmer from Endalls farm was unable to reach us, someone had dumped hundreds of tree cuttings in our driveway which he very kindly removed because of the risk of emergency services not being able to gain access.

It would be appreciated if all of the above could be taken into account when consideration of our application to site temporary overnight accommodation is considered.

Enclosed is our completed application form, along with our cheque and pictures we have taken which we feel may be of use. (Would it be possible to return the pictures to us)

Yours sincerely

Jonathan Fulbrook.

£5k offered to solve arson riddles

THE British Horse Society has offered a reward of £5,000 for information leading to the conviction of arsonists who killed five horses in separate incidents last week.

In the first fire, a 17hh four-year-old grey gelding, Conor Duke, died in his stable after what has been described as a long-running hate campaign, with the horse as the target.

His owner, Joyce Barrington of Tadley, Hants, had planned to guard Conor Duke's stable, but was warned by police not to spend the night at the livery yard on her own.

That evening, she received a call from a friend telling her the stable was on fire.

Mrs Barrington said: "I ran to the stable. I cannot describe what I saw there."

Firefighters attended the blaze, but only found the horse's body once they had got the fire under control.

What began with the horse's water buckets being overturned, haynets removed and the stable door left open took a more sinister turn when, in September, his knee was slashed, apparently by an attacker, on the eve of his first dressage competition.

While Conor Duke was recovering on box rest in the following weeks, the campaign continued, with the horse being turned out into a field overnight causing problems with his leg.

Then, shortly before Guy Fawkes night, two fireworks were found in his stable.

Hampshire police have said that the series of incidents leading up to the fire led them to believe it was started deliberately and they are appealing for help.

In the second unrelated attack, four horses died in a blaze at a stable in Norman Park, Bromley, Kent.

Owner Tony Issacs of Dulwich, East London, said that the arson, which killed his children's ponies as well as his own 17hh Thoroughbred, had "destroyed" him.

He said: "Whoever did this has ruined our lives. They are sick. There is no other word for them."

Like Joyce Barrington, he described escalating violence against the horses in recent weeks.

Lowesby is axed

ONE of the horse trials season's most popular events has fallen victim to a crowded calendar.

Miles Howard, organiser of Lowesby horse trials in Leicestershire, believes that the early June date allocated for next year will not be viable and his committee has reluctantly decided to call it a day after 10 years.

Lowesby, which originally ran in early June, was given Milton Keynes's vacated late-June slot this season, but the Buckinghamshire event has stated its intention to run next year. The early June date would have brought Lowesby into competition with Sansaw, Longleat, Buckminster Park and Oatridge.

BHTA events committee chairman Richard Clapham commented: "Considerable effort has been made by the regional director to find a suitable date for Lowesby next year, but, regrettably, it was only after the calendar had been finalised that we were aware that Lowesby was unhappy with its date."

IN BRIEF

P(UK) counts the cost

THE cost of hiring facilities at the East of England showground has prompted Ponies (UK) to abandon its traditional spring show.

Announcing the decision at the society's AGM on Sunday, chairman Davina Whiteman said: "We have decided to close the curtains on this first prestigious outdoor show of the season, as the cost of the venue has become prohibitive for one day. However, we will combine a spring festival with the Winter Championships."

HORSE & HOUND COMMENT

Thank you, Sir Harry

AT the very time Horse & Hound is preparing a review of a century of equestrian achievement, the death of Sir Harry Llewellyn, aged 88, has an extra poignancy.

"End of an era" is a well-worn cliche, but, when applied to Harry, these words could not be more apt.

Harry Llewellyn and Foxhunter — winners of 78 international classes — effectively put British show jumping on the map. Even more importantly Harry helped shape post-war equestrianism by being able to draw on a wealth of all-round horsemanship and life experience for decades after he hung up his boots.

Certainly, he was lucky to have the private means to do what he liked, unlike contemporary riders, for whom show jumping has, by necessity, become the bread-winner.

However, it is worth remembering that Harry was a brilliant engineer, and he achieved some of his finest sporting moments while running companies which produced more than half the coal output of south Wales.

Harry's big moment came at the 1952 Olympic Games.

By no means the best British partnership — Wilf White and Nizefella just missed the individual bronze — it fell to Harry and Foxhunter to jump the final, winning clear in the Nations Cup. At a lean time for Britain in terms of both medals and post-war rationing, what became known as "Foxhunters Gold" caught the public imagination and became a truly national event.

Later, Col Llewellyn used his bucket loads of charisma to promote show jumping, with spells leading the BSJA and BEF, officiating at FEI events and acting as chef d'equipe to British teams abroad.

He was a fearless [illegible] of hounds and bred prize-winning [illegible] ponies carrying the Foxhunter [illegible]

[illegible] was tireless in promoting [illegible] interests, believing everyone should [illegible] the chance to ride in whatever format. Perhaps he was just being mischievous, but he once kept the FEI's annual assembly entertained for an hour with the case for expanding tent-pegging as an "official" international sport.

The name of Foxhunter lives on with the now legendary novice championship and we hope that a worthy new title will be set up to recall his rider, too.

Sport does move on, but the horse world is much the poorer for the passing of Sir Harry and his ilk.

Help for Victims of Crime

Being a victim of any crime can be unpleasant, upsetting and often frightening. This leaflet gives you information which may help you deal with that cirme and suggests some organisations you may contact. After you have reported the incident, you may well think of questions you wished you had asked at the time. If you need further advice, you will find details of how to contact us shown below. We will do our best to help you.

Giving Support to Victims

Whever you live there is likely to be a Victim Support scheme, run by specially trained volunteers who offer help and advice to people who have been victims of crime. The police will inform Victim Support of most crimes, so you may be contacted directly by your local scheme. (If you do not want us to do this, please tell the officer dealing with your case). If you would like to contact Victim Support direclty, your local police station will be able to give you the addess and telephone number.

Claiming Financial Compensation

If you have been injured, suffered financial loss, or have any item of property damaged or stolen as a result of a crime, you may be able to claim financial compensation.

There are a number of alternative ways of claiming compensation:

1. When the offender appears in Court the Magistrates or Judge may order compensation to be paid to you.
2. You can take action yourself through a Civil Court.
3. The Criminal Injuries Compensation board may award money if you have been injured as a result of a crime.
4. The Motor Insurers Bureau will sometimes award money if you have been the victim of a road traffic accident (for conditions, see below).

1. The Criminal Court

If the criminal is caught and convicted he/she may be ordered to pay compensation, so make sure that you tell the police officer investigating your case of any costs that you have had to bear as a result of the offence (e.g. medical expenses, repairs to property). It is helpful if you keep receipts.

2. The Civil Court

A Civil Court is a different type of court from the one where a criminal case is heard. You can personally sue someone through a Civil Court for a wrong-doing against you. For more information, you should contact your local Citizen's Advice Bureau or your solicitor.

3. The Criminal Injuries Compensation Scheme

If you have been injured as a result of a crime you can apply for compensation through this scheme, whether or not the offender is known or has been caught. For more information a leaftlet on the Criminal Injuries Compensation Scheme can be obtained from your local Citizen's Advice Bureau, Victim Support scheme, your solicitor or from:

The Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority,
Tay House,
300 Bath Street,
Glasgow,
G2 4JR
Tel: 0141 3312726

4. The Motor Insurer's Bureau

If you have been the victim in a road accident compensation is normally paid by the other person's insurance company. If the offender is unisured or cannot be traced you may be able to claim compensation from:

The Motor Insurer's Bureau,
152 Silbury Boulevard,
Central Milton Keynes.

Tel: 01908 830001

Preventing Crime

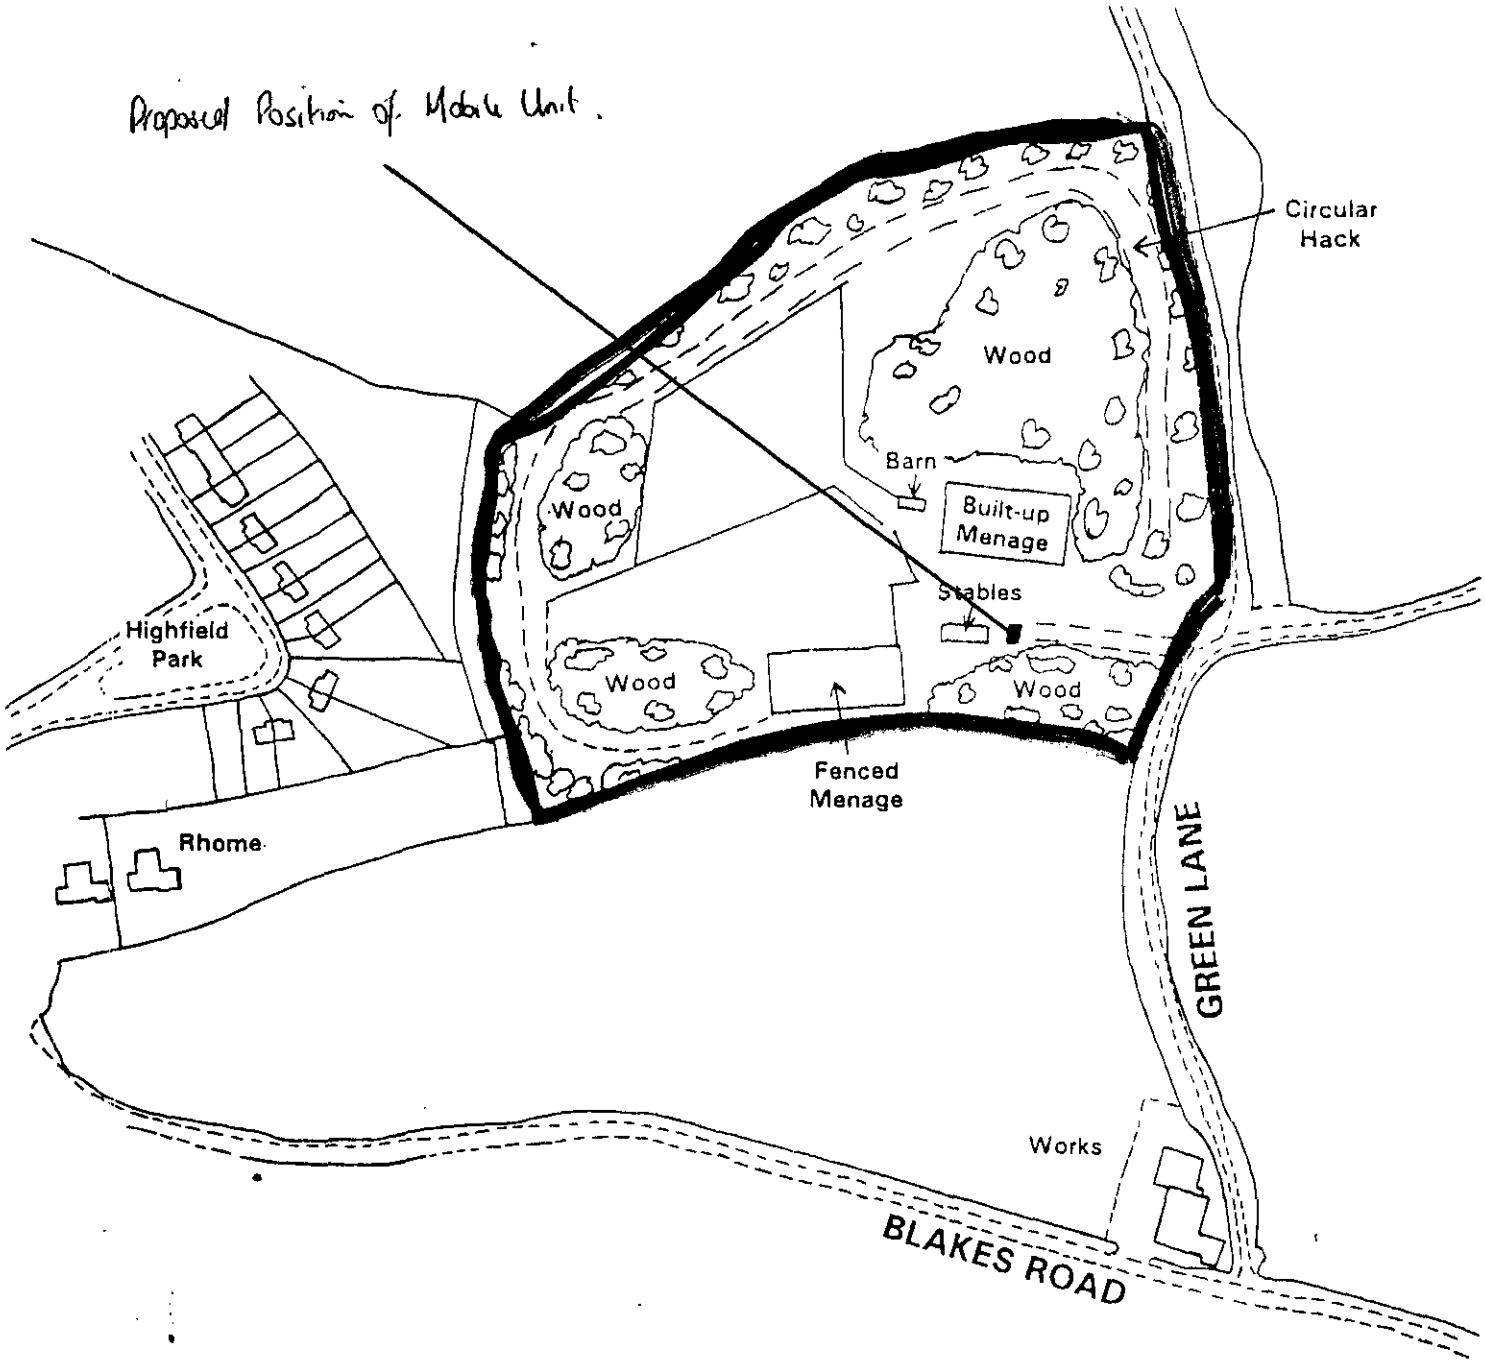

Taking sensible crime prevention measures really can work. Making your home and other propety more secure is not as expensive as you may think. Your local police will be pleased to give you the necessary information on security and personal safety. You can also help to increase the safety of your neighbourhood by encouraging your friends and neighbours to start a Neighbourhood Watch Scheme or join an exisiting one. Your local police station will provide information on this. Most insurance companies offer discounts on premiums where you have improved security and membership of Neighbourhood Watch.

WHERE TO CONTACT US

If you need further information regarding this case or wish to pass addional information you will find details of contact telephone numbers and postal addresses on the reverse of this form. The crime report number at the top of this page is prefixed by a letter; by reference to this letter you an identify the correct station to contact. e.g. if the crime report number begins with the letter 'A' you should contact the Aylesbury Police Area.

Please note these telephone numbers should be used only in relation to this particular investiagation. If you need to contact your local police for any other reason you should contact the number shown in the telephone diectory or, in the case of an emergency by dialling 999.

1.) Impact upon the character and amenity of the Green Belt.

The proposal development is for a mobile home unit to provide overnight accommodation for a person for security for the Stables. There are 4 Stables with on the site, which is well screened from the roads by dense mature landscaping.

The applicants state that they have been the victim of several arson and flytipping. They state that the overnight accommodation would be required to provide protection from theft or vandalism.

However, although the application is for a temporary 2yrs. There is no explanation of what would happen after the 2yrs were over.

There is no justification under Green Belt policy or guidance for the mobile unit to be approved. I have also considered the proposal very special circumstances under which they state the application is justified. However, their security circumstances are very similar to other stables within the area and in planning terms the special circumstances do not out weight the harm which would be caused to the character and amenity of the green Belt of allowing this ~~new~~ Temporary mobile home.

Dear Ms Lake,

RE: NINE ACRE WOOD, BLAKES LANE

I write further to your letter of instruction in relation to the above planning application. Please note that in considering this application, information on the history and present circumstances has been derived solely from documentation submitted with the application, and from papers provided by the Council. RAC has neither contacted the applicant nor attended the site, as it is considered that the written information available should be sufficient upon which to base an opinion. Such an approach accords with the guidance provided in paragraph 22 of Annex I of PPG7.

This brief report considers the application in the light of national and local development control policies and, in particular, RAC has been asked to consider whether there is a justifiable need to provide 24-hour accommodation for 4 horses.

I trust that this brief appraisal meets your requirements.

Please note that I enclose our invoice in order to keep postage and other costs down - I trust you will consider this appropriate.

Appraisal

Reading Agricultural Consultants was instructed by Wokingham District Council in March 2000, to consider a planning application, made by Mr J M Fulbrook, for a 2-year temporary permission to provide a "single mobile unit for overnight security purposes" at Nine Acre Wood, Wargrave. It is understood that Mr Fulbrook purchased the unit some 12-18 months ago for use as a private equestrian centre. The site extends to some 3.6 ha and includes a stable block with accommodation for 4 horses, and ancillary storage facilities.

The planning policy guidelines against which this planning application must be considered are set out variously in:

Wokingham District Local Plan	Deposit Draft 1997
PPG7 - The Countryside...	1997

Draft Local Policy WGB1 notes that "there will be a presumption against inappropriate development in the Metropolitan Green Belt...and approval will not be given...for the construction of new buildings or the change of use of land for any purpose other than..." The list that follows includes agriculture and forestry uses, essential facilities for outdoor sport, and other limited criteria, but does not include equestrian uses. However, the supporting text notes that:

> "The principle of allowing new dwellings in the countryside...is established in the adopted local plans...there may in future be other uses in rural areas that may require a continuous presence on site, for operational or security reasons, e.g equestrian establishments. In such instances, as for agricultural dwellings, the need for accommodation needs to be firmly proved by way of functional and financial tests set out in current notes for countryside. Government guidance on this issue at present is contained in Annex I of PPG7".

With regard to temporary dwellings, Annex I of PPG7, notes that mobile homes may be considered appropriate "to support a new farming activity" if the following criteria are met:

(a) clear evidence of a firm intention and ability to develop the enterprise concerned
(b) functional need - where it is essential for the proper functioning of the enterprise for a worker to be readily available at most times - in case animals require essential care at short notice
(c) clear evidence that the proposed enterprise has been planned on a sound financial basis
(d) the functional need could not be met by another dwelling
(e) other normal planning requirements are satisfied.

It is my understanding that the owner of these stables purchased the site within the last 18 months in full knowledge that there was no accommodation on site. It is also apparent from the planning file, that there have been numerous applications for dwellings on this unit (in 1969, 1971, 1972, 1973), none of which have been successful. However, it is clear that the owner has established a firm intention and ability to develop the enterprise concerned: the first criterion would be considered PASSED

As far as the functional need is concerned, it is my understanding that there are only 4 horses on this unit and numerous planning Inspectors have used about 20 horses as the benchmark for essential functional need for residential staff presence. To date this supervisory capacity has been provided by the owner living at home - which is understood to be located in Wargrave, within 2 minutes of the unit

- but which may, or may not, be located within site and sound of the unit. However, a journey time of 2 minutes is considered acceptable to deal with most problems on the unit - of a type that could be satisfactorily dealt with by the owner living on site. (It is relevant to note that the residential development of Highfield Park is adjacent to the site). I consider criterion (b) is FAILED, and I am not satisfied that criterion (d) is passed.

(Appeal Decisions T/APP/C/91/H1840/612966-7/P6, and T/APP/P1805/A/97/283049/P7 both support the contention that 4 horses do not justify a permanent on-site presence.)

As far as the finances of the enterprise are concerned no documentation has been provided upon which to test this unit. It is clear that the unit provides accommodation solely for the owner's fiancée's horses - but it is not clear whether this is the fiancée's sole source of income. I am unable to draw any conclusions about the financial stability of this particular unit. I would, however, point out that most dwellings permitted under the agricultural exception are related to a business use of the land, not a use related to personal recreation - though I recognise that keeping and competing in 3-day eventing may be considered a business use of the land.

As far as security is concerned, I am aware that there have been thefts from the unit, and that the police have been involved on at least one occasion, however, PPG7 (I8) notes that > "the protection of livestock from theft or injury by intruders may contribute on animal welfare grounds to the need for an agricultural dwelling, although it will not by itself be sufficient to justify one".

No information has been provided relating to the existing security arrangements, and in particular to any alarms that are installed. Given that the owner lives within 2 minutes of the site it is considered that such systems would provide more than adequate protection. Indeed, it may be relevant to note that there exist stable blocks that are sited more than 2 minutes distance from the residential unit on some units.

However, RAC is mindful that an equestrian enterprise has existed on the present site for at least the past 5 years without a dwelling.

Conclusion

Numerous Inspectors have used about 20 horses as the benchmark for need for essential permanent staff presence, so this unit falls significantly short of this "target". However, the number of horses on the unit is only one element that needs to be weighed in the balance.

Reference has been made to the increasing risk of attacks on the stock but RAC notes that the guidance in PPG7 (I8) is that it will not be sufficient to justify one.

Re: Pre application for potential residential accommodation
In association with The Stables 9, Acre Wood, Off Blakes Road, Wargrave.

Dear Heather,

Many thanks for your letter which I received 18th November, which highlighted some useful points. We are still getting problems which I will come to later in this letter.

I would like to detail the main reasons for my request, which I believe to be exceptional circumstances. The vast majority of our problems occur overnight, therefore this is the accommodation that we would require, some detailed thought has been put into this by myself and my fiance. We are not concerned about exactly what we have as long as it looks respectable and fits in with the stables, we feel a small single mobile unit (approx 15-18ft) with toilet, would meet our requirement, positioned where discussed being totally secluded as well as blending in with the stables.

When we purchased the land some time ago we were assured of its quiet surroundings and obvious seclusion. This along with the fantastic range of wildlife and outstanding natural beauty as well as the perfect equestrian facilities installed at some considerable cost by the previous owner and ourselves, made it perfect for us.

Now that we have been on site for 12 months or so, we have come to realise that despite these problems we could be very happy here, especially as we have recently moved onto the Purfield Drive Area.

As you may or may not be aware we have numerous protected badger sets, muntjacs and deer (all within the boundaries of the land.)

We have been visited on site by travellers on numerous occasions, who keep asking us to sell them land, most recently one such person arrived at the entrance gate asking about a spare stable that we had, which you cannot see unless you have gained access to the site. I am very conscious to be polite and courteous at all times because I have been made aware of the problems that can happen and as my fiance is generally on site on her own, this is a worry to me.

My fiance has had a scruffy strange looking man walk directly through the middle of the land and ask if she had any horses for sale, despite being told that the land was private property he returned around a week later. We have now obtained a 'guard' dog who is certainly making us feel safer.

Our main problems have been the break-in of our tack room, with the following items being stolen

2 nearly new Pessoa jumping saddles
various bridles and tack
3 padlocks were broken
Large Hayter Lawnmower/Tractor
Two expensive wheel barrows and our electric fencing, plus the transformer

When the Police finally turned up (they could not find us) they suggested there was not much else we could do, except for having someone on site.

We have replaced most of the missing items, but our main concern now is for the horses. During the summer one of our protected Oak trees was set alight, along with the rear of one of the stables. Our horses are not only loved but very valuable, we have 4 at present in various stages on the competition ladder the most advanced is aiming for Badminton 3 day event next year.

Insurance is proving impossible to find especially for the fire risk. Please see cutting from paper enclosed, the problem of arson has become of deep concern to everyone connected with horses.

We estimate the replacement value for all our horses would be in excess of £40,000 and our lorry / tractor and various other tools another £25,000.

Our latest problem has been the dumping of rubbish in our drive way, on one occasion I sorted through and found an address in Wargrave High Street, only 2 nights ago the farmer from Endalls farm was unable to reach us, someone had dumped hundreds of tree cuttings in our driveway which he very kindly removed because of the risk of emergency services not being able to gain access.

It would be appreciated if all of the above could be taken into account when consideration of our application to site temporary overnight accommodation is considered.

Enclosed is our completed application form, along with our cheque and pictures we have taken which we feel may be of use. (Would it be possible to return the pictures to us)

Yours sincerely

Jonathan Fulbrook

£5k offered to solve arson riddles

THE British Horse Society has offered a reward of £5,000 for information leading to the conviction of arsonists who killed five horses in separate incidents last week.

In the first fire, a 17hh four-year-old grey gelding, Conor Duke, died in his stable after what has been described as a long-running hate campaign, with the horse as the target.

His owner, Joyce Barrington of Tadley, Hants, had planned to guard Conor Duke's stable, but was warned by police not to spend the night at the livery yard on her own.

That evening, she received a call from a friend telling her the stable was on fire.

Mrs Barrington said: "I ran to the stable. I cannot describe what I saw there."

Firefighters attended the blaze, but only found the horse's body once they had got the fire under control.

What began with the horse's water buckets being overturned, haynets removed and the stable door left open took a more sinister turn when, in September, his knee was slashed, apparently by an attacker, on the eve of his first dressage competition.

While Conor Duke was recovering on box rest in the following weeks, the campaign continued, with the horse being turned out into a field overnight causing problems with his leg.

Then, shortly before Guy Fawkes night, two fireworks were found in his stable.

Hampshire police have said that the series of incidents leading up to the fire led them to believe it was started deliberately and they are appealing for help.

In the second unrelated attack, four horses died in a blaze at a stable in Norman Park, Bromley, Kent.

Owner Tony Issacs of Dulwich, East London, said that the arson, which killed his children's ponies as well as his own 17hh Thoroughbred, had "destroyed" him.

He said: "Whoever did this has ruined our lives. They are sick. There is no other word for them."

Like Joyce Barrington, he described escalating violence against the horses in recent weeks.

Lowesby is axed

ONE of the horse trials season's most popular events has fallen victim to a crowded calendar.

Miles Howard, organiser of Lowesby horse trials in Leicestershire, believes that the early June date allocated for next year will not be viable and his committee has reluctantly decided to call it a day after 10 years.

Lowesby, which originally ran in early June, was given Milton Keynes's vacated late-June slot this season, but the Buckinghamshire event has stated its intention to run next year. The early June date would have brought Lowesby into competition with Sansaw, Longleat, Buckminster Park and Oatridge.

BHTA events committee chairman Richard Clapham commented: "Considerable effort has been made by the regional director to find a suitable date for Lowesby next year, but, regrettably, it was only after the calendar had been finalised that we were aware that Lowesby was unhappy with its date."

IN BRIEF

P(UK) counts the cost

THE cost of hiring facilities at the East of England showground has prompted Ponies (UK) to abandon its traditional spring show.

Announcing the decision at the society's AGM on Sunday, chairman Davina Whiteman said: "We have decided to close the curtains on this first prestigious outdoor show of the season, as the cost of the venue has become prohibitive for one day. However, we will combine a spring festival with the Winter Championships."

HORSE & HOUND COMMENT

Thank you, Sir Harry

[illegible] the news that Horse & Hound is preparing a review of [illegible] of equestrian achievement, the death of Sir Harry Llewellyn aged 88, has an extra poignancy.

"End of an era" is a well-worn cliché, but, when applied to Harry, these words could not be more apt.

Harry Llewellyn and Foxhunter's [illegible] wonners of 78 international classes [illegible] effectively put British show jumping on the map. Even more importantly, Harry helped shape post-war equestrianism by being able to draw on a wealth of all-round horsemanship and life experience for decades after he hung up his boots.

Certainly he was lucky to have the private means to do what he liked, unlike contemporary riders, for whom show jumping has, by necessity, become the bread-winner.

However, it is worth remembering that Harry was a brilliant engineer, and he achieved some of his finest sporting moments while running companies which produced more than half the coal output of south Wales.

Harry's big moment came at the 1952 Olympic Games.

By no means the best British partnership — Wilf White and Nizefella just missed the individual bronze — it fell to Harry and Foxhunter to jump the final, winning clear in the Nations Cup. At a lean time for Britain in terms of both medals and post-war rationing, what became known as "Foxhunters Gold" caught the public imagination and became a truly national event.

Later, Col Llewellyn used his bucket loads of charisma to promote show jumping, with spells leading the BSJA and BEF, officiating at FEI events and acting as chef d'equipe to British teams abroad.

He was a fearless master of hounds and bred prize-winning Welsh ponies carrying the Foxhunter prefix.

Less glamorously, he was tireless in promoting minority interests, believing everyone should have the chance to ride in whatever format. Perhaps he was just being mischievous, but he once kept the FEI's annual assembly entertained for an hour with the case for expanding tent-pegging as an "official" international sport.

The name of Foxhunter lives on with the now legendary novice championship and we hope that a worthy new title will be set up to recall his rider, too.

Sport does move on, but the horse world is much the poorer for the passing of Sir Harry and his ilk.

Help for Victims of Crime

Being a victim of any crime can be unpleasant, upsetting and often frightening. This leaflet gives you information which may help you deal with that cirme and suggests some organisations you may contact. After you have reported the incident, you may well think of questions you wished you had asked at the time. If you need further advice, you will find details of how to contact us shown below. We will do our best to help you.

Giving Support to Victims

Whever you live there is likely to be a Victim Support scheme, run by specially trained volunteers who offer help and advice to people who have been victims of crime. The police will inform Victim Support of most crimes, so you may be contacted directly by your local scheme. (If you do not want us to do this, please tell the officer dealing with your case). If you would like to contact Victim Support direclty, your local police station will be able to give you the addess and telephone number.

Claiming Financial Compensation

If you have been injured, suffered financial loss, or have any item of property damaged or stolen as a result of a crime, you may be able to claim financial compensation.

There are a number of alternative ways of claiming compensation:

1. When the offender appears in Court the Magistrates or Judge may order compensation to be paid to you.
2. You can take action yourself through a Civil Court.
3. The Criminal Injuries Compensation board may award money if you have been injured as a result of a crime.
4. The Motor Insurers Bureau will sometimes award money if you have been the victim of a road traffic accident (for conditions, see below).

1. The Criminal Court

If the criminal is caught and convicted he/she may be ordered to pay compensation, so make sure that you tell the police officer investigating your case of any costs that you have had to bear as a result of the offence (e.g. medical expenses, repairs to property). It is helpful if you keep receipts.

2. The Civil Court

A Civil Court is a different type of court from the one where a criminal case is heard. You can personally sue someone through a Civil Court for a wrong-doing against you. For more information, you should contact your local Citizen's Advice Bureau or your solicitor.

3. The Criminal Injuries Compensation Scheme

If you have been injured as a result of a crime you can apply for compensation through this scheme, whether or not the offender is known or has been caught. For more information a leaftlet on the Criminal Injuries Compensation Scheme can be obtained from your local Citizen's Advice Bureau, Victim Support scheme, your solicitor or from:

The Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority,
Tay House,
300 Bath Street,
Glasgow,
G2 4JR

Tel: 0141 3312726

4. The Motor Insurer's Bureau

If you have been the victim in a road accident compensation is normally paid by the other person's insurance company. If the offender is unisured or cannot be traced you may be able to claim compensation from:

The Motor Insurer's Bureau,
152 Silbury Boulevard,
Central Milton Keynes.
MK9 1MB

Tel: 01908 830001

Preventing Crime

Taking sensible crime prevention measures really can work. Making your home and other propety more secure is not as expensive as you may think. Your local police will be pleased to give you the necessary information on security and personal safety. You can also help to increase the safety of your neighbourhood by encouraging your friends and neighbours to start a Neighbourhood Watch Scheme or join an exisiting one. Your local police station will provide information on this. Most insurance companies offer discounts on premiums where you have improved security and membership of Neighbourhood Watch.

WHERE TO CONTACT US

If you need further information regarding this case or wish to pass addional information you will find details of contact telephone numbers and postal addresses on the reverse of this form. The crime report number at the top of this page is prefixed by a letter; by reference to this letter you an identify the correct station to contact. e.g. if the crime report number begins with the letter 'A' you should contact the Aylesbury Police Area.

Please note these telephone numbers should be used only in relation to this particular investiagation. If you need to contact your local police for any other reason you should contact the number shown in the telephone diectory or, in the case of an emergency by dialling 999.
