COMMENTS:

The proposal is for a rather large shed at the rear of the property, alongside this is a row of conifer trees. Conifers are the worst at blocking light and given their position would remove a lot of sun from my garden. We have some dappled foliage already in our garden there is no need to add such a sun block and destroy my lawn and other plants. The building will be above my fence line, it will, apart from being an eyesore, also block light. All of this is to be set above a water main that runs under the rear of the Belamie Gables property (there is actually a no-mans land area behind my fence, which they claimed after Taylor Wimpy finished with the Build of Croft Gardens) Since they have already cut down 2 major trees, both having been home to an array of animals, including bats for the area, I really hope this gets some more detailed consideration. I strongly object to the overly thick blockage of light to the rear of the property garden.
