COMMENTS:

I am concerned about the potential for devastating pollution to the lakes immediately behind the site, and the river Loddon adjacent, should there ever be a spill or leak at the site. Should any of the fuel escape in this way the lakes are only metres away. The river is adjacent and could easily spread any fuel downstream, which would very quickly reach the Thames.

I also have concerns about air pollution. When fuel storage started on the site a few months ago, there would on occasion be an overwhelming smell of oil from the A3032 in front of the site. I assume that this would become a regular feature once the site was in full use.
