COMMENTS:

I would never object to good people wanting to improve their homes. I have already advised that I would make these comments, but for us, our garden and house is very close to the development. Our house is at a lower level so, any builders work is going to be pretty obvious and pretty intrusive to our house and garden. My only concern is that there are some obvious respectful limitations on timings and noise. We are pretty new to this area, but it is pretty quiet most of the time, one of the reasons we came here, we also do work a lot from home too. I manage contractors and builders on a daily basis, so know what they are like, so all I ask is some respect from them in early mornings and evenings, but especially weekends, as the garden link onto each other and we do sit and go in our back garden during the summer. Happy to support, but also like my piece and quiet, so hopefully we can reach an acceptable balance.
