COMMENTS:

This looks like a very nice development. The developers have made efforts to design homes that reflect the varied traditional houses on the surrounding roads. The landscaping on the land near the road will be a great improvement compared to the concrete carpark and empty buildings we've been seeing for the last few years.

There's a good variety of house sizes.

I wouldn't support the additional of a pedestrian crossing or roundabout. I don't feel that is necessary. There isn't really anywhere to walk to from the site, except the pub and garden centres.
