COMMENTS:

I strongly oppose the development of any religious center in Winnersh and Wokingham, as it may disrupt the harmony and character of our town. Large gatherings, increased traffic, noise pollution, and the impact on surrounding businesses will lead to congestion and disturbances in the area issues that have already been observed by many.

Places of worship should remain a personal matter, and those who wish to pray can do so in their homes without affecting the wider community. It is crucial to maintain the peaceful and inclusive nature of the area without altering its existing dynamics.

To the council, I urge you to carefully consider the long-term consequences of such developments. It appears that the council is developing a pattern of double standards, or perhaps certain individuals are deliberately exploiting loopholes to push applications through without properly informing the wider Winnersh and Wokingham community. This lack of transparency was evident in last year's poor planning decision regarding a religious center, where the larger community was not adequately consulted but for Aldi application whole community was informed. The same process seems to be happening again please do not repeat the same mistake. Winnersh and Wokingham should be preserved as residential and commercial areas, ensuring a balanced and thriving community for all.
