COMMENTS:

Our garden backs on to the above property. The boundary wall runs down the side of our property and then turns right to form part of rear boundary of our property. It then turns again to form the side boundary of the Sundew Close uproperty. My issue is when the wall was built it was not jointed at this point but a continuation of laid bricks. If they wish to detach from our wall then they must accept responsibility for any damage to our section and ensure the bare end is covered. There is also a large copper beech tree that has been planted too close to our fence which we would appreciate being reduced in size or removed at the same time the other foliage is being dealt with. No objection in principle but it needs to be done by professionals to prevent damage.
