COMMENTS:

There is a ~6ft high dividing wall between No 41 and No 43, which is single skin brick with a number of brick piers. This wall continues at right angles to the front of No 41 and the plans show that this wall will be removed. There is also a change in ground level between the two properties at this point.

I would like to be reassured that the changes will not compromise the wall in any way as it's alongside our drive where we park our cars (and right next to Ben's new extension), or that measures to reinforce the wall will be made. There is nothing obvious in these plans.

I am not sure which property is responsible for this boundary wall.
