COMMENTS:

It is recorded that UK is facing a critical shortage of burial spaces, with up to half of all local authorities estimated to run out of plots within 20 years. A section of the UK population prefer traditional burial ceremonies where even after a burial has taken place, a wreath or flowers is laid on family members tomb to show love, affection and respect for their departed relatives.

This application when approved have the tendency to offer jobs and training opportunities for long unemployed. This is because the plan is to explore the possibilities of growing flowers on site using green technologies.

I understand a portion of the land will be dedicated for gardening using Agric Volts technologies, thus to grow flowers on site and other greens using solar technologies.

In view of this background, I support the approval of this planning application.
