COMMENTS:

Wokingham simply cannot accommodate this level and pace of housebuilding. This apocation com inedible with the south distributor scheme and as I understand it athe next stage of the local plan will put as many as 3000 homes in this area in relatively short space of time. The housebuilding is utterly changing the character and nature of Wokingham which until recently was described as a small market town. This development will in effect merge Wokingham with Bracknell. Wokingham is already connected to Reading. Current residents are being asked to live through intense traffic disruption and to endnup living in a very large conurbation. Deeply unfair and unsettling. Such developments should strategically be supported in Northern areas to support the levelling up agenda.
