COMMENTS:

This application does not suit the location. Charvil is a residential area. This proposal for a fuel storage facility should be placed in an existing industrial area. Pollution will occur in the air, in the ground and will seep into the River London.

Apart from this, the existing road system leading to the proposed site, is inadequate for the number of tankers predicted to gain access to the site. This will lead to complete congestion of the road preventing access by residents to the shops in Twyford and the station. HGVs will cause irreparable damage to the surrounding roads. Council officers who represent us should refuse this application on the grounds of unsuitability for this area, general pollution which could harm local residents, traffic gridlock and damage to road surfaces and general disruption to residents' way of life.

I trust that the council will throw out this application as being totally unacceptable.
