COMMENTS:

The nature that surrounds the current housing is a vital habitat for the species that inhabit Shinfield. These offer an appealing countryside aesthetic and counteract increasing pollution levels. However, building over the fields and hedgerows will severely damage the strongly interlinked ecosystems and adversely impact the species that dwell in these places. As well as this, stripping the area of vital greenery and replacing it with tightly packed housing results in ugly aesthetics. A denser population results in high levels of traffic congestion, which will worsen the air quality in Shinfield. Severe traffic already results in up to 20 minutes of delay, but it would only worsen with the new housing. Please consider all these negative implications upon our community by developing such little housing.
