COMMENTS:

I write to object to the revised planning application for the new buildings at Thamesfield Retirement Village. My mother lives in number 2 Remenham Row, directly opposite the proposed new building and the size/height remain almost unchanged from the initial application. The design is still 3 stories high, and although the balconies have been removed, there are full height windows directly looking into my mother's bedroom and living room, which is not acceptable. The building also appears to be too close to the boundary - regulations require a minimum of 30m between back to back elevations, and the proposed building is only approx 20m.
