COMMENTS:

As an addendum to my previous objection, I just want to add that the applicant has falsely alluded to this row of trees previously being a hedge. These trees were never a hedge. They are all that is left of a densely populated woodland that was once teeming with wildlife. The developer has removed all trees and foliage that comprised the woodland, leaving only the few trees along the perimeter of the site. Once again I must emphasise that these are trees that are protected by TPO's, none of them are diseased or require any remedial work. This application appears to be purely an attempt by a new resident to limit the amount of leaf fall in their garden.
