COMMENTS:

Given the huge amount of development that's just started in this area and who's true impact on traffic won't really be understood for a 7-8 years the idea of bolting on another big development is a really poor idea. The roads between it and a329 are already busy even without the new sdr development and will only get worse as development continues in crowthrone. It also further makes a mockery of the idea of gaps between Bracknell and Wokingham. Put a solar farm on it.
