

The image displays four architectural elevation drawings of a building facade, arranged horizontally. Each drawing shows a different view of the building, which has a yellow upper section and a white lower section. The drawings include dimensions and structural details.

- First Drawing (Leftmost): Shows a front elevation with a chimney on the left. The upper yellow section has two windows, each with a height dimension of 2500. The lower white section has a large set of glass doors. The building is shown on a grey base with a small set of steps on the left.
- Second Drawing: Shows a side elevation with a chimney on the right. The upper yellow section has two windows, each with a height dimension of 2500. The lower white section has a single window. The building is shown on a grey base with a small set of steps on the right.
- Third Drawing: Shows a front elevation with a chimney on the right. The upper yellow section has two windows, each with a height dimension of 2500. The lower white section has a single window. The building is shown on a grey base with a small set of steps on the right.
- Fourth Drawing (Rightmost): Shows a side elevation with a chimney on the left. The upper yellow section has two windows, each with a height dimension of 2500. The lower white section has a single window. The building is shown on a grey base with a small set of steps on the left.
