COMMENTS:

I live in Henley and love everything that the town has to offer, particularly lovely walks along the river.

I have visited Remenham Row many times as I have friends who live there and it is a unique small retirement estate set in beautiful grounds that go down to the river. It is quiet and peaceful and not overlooked from any direction.

I cannot believe that such a huge three storey building is even being considered for development at Thamesfield Retirement Village. It is inevitable that such a building would have a major affect on the residents of Remenham Row where it will clearly impact their privacy (due to overlooking), light and view. This proposed building would be in very close proximity to the houses at Remenham Row and there will be no distance between its location and the boundary wall.

The proposed building is totally out of character with the main white period building to which it will adjoin and will be visible from the other side of the river. It would be a blight, detracting from the character and aesthetic of the surrounding area.

I also live in a retirement development and cannot imagine how concerning this proposal is for the residents at Remenham Row.

For all of these reasons I wish to object to this planning application.
