COMMENTS:

We clearly need more houses. This looks like a well thought out scheme. There will be a deluge of people objecting to it, because there will be wherever anyone wants to build. I drive along this route. I don't doubt it will make my own life slightly more inconvenient but that's not the point. Our economy desperately needs us to build things. Given most of the people who comment on this sort of thing object, I want to register the opposite.
