

PLANNING REF : 252138
PROPERTY ADDRESS : 135 Hyde End Road
: 135 Hyde End Ro, Reading
: RG29EP
SUBMITTED BY : Mr Jason Palmer
DATE SUBMITTED : 03/10/2025

COMMENTS:

Read the comments from others - there are lots of valid reasons why this is not a good idea.

The 'SANG' you palmed us off with as a sweetener for the generic boxes you built in the other developments on Hyde End Road was short lived - you now propose building over it with more ??? !!! ???

Enough is certainly enough as most are saying with their feedback - more than enough I would say.

Think about the little green space we have left.

The traffic in the area is terrible and will only get worse with more development.

With new developments come new problems - 'Anti Social Behaviour' reported in the vicinity is another concern.

Better infrastructure is needed and restriction of commercial traffic such as Lorries / Busses would make Hyde End Road a safer place. Accidents occur and large vehicles passing side by side on some parts are dangerous... this has noticeably got worse over the past 18yrs I have lived here.

I don't think it is right for the area - however, once you have filled the entire place with houses there will be no further space for more!

With more revenue from Council tax are the council considering lowering the tax for existing residents ? I thought not :o(

If anyone is reading this feedback I would like to say its a shame as what was historically a nice place to live is fast becoming unpleasant with increasing costs and a poorer living quality to go with it.

Its possibly becoming the right time to move if things continue as they are.